U.S. man charged after airport search

PORN A 63-year-old Utah man is facing charges after border agents at the Ottawa airport allegedly found evidence of child porn on his computer last week.

The Ottawa Police Internet Child Exploitation Unit was contacted and arrested the man last Thursday after a search of his laptop by Canadian Border Services Agents allegedly turned up evidence of child pornography.

John Karl Dean of St. George, Utah, is being held in custody awaiting his next court appearance on charges of possession of child pornography and importation of child pornography.

Police are still investigating the incident.

Health Concern for hunger-strike activist

Akram Ataie, 45, is helped onto a gurney by Ottawa paramedics because of health concerns that have arisen after her 27-day hunger strike. A group of nine people have camped along Mackenzie Avenue across the U.S. Embassy demanding the American government step in to protect people in Camp Ashraf — an Iranian refugee camp near Baghdad in Iraq.

Police know identity of woman in Jenkins case

The woman believed to have helped reality TV contestant Ryan Jenkins get a motel room where the accused murderer killed himself is not considered a threat to public, police said yesterday.

Police know who the woman is and can contact her if needed, but said it was too early to say if she would be facing any charges for helping Jenkins hide in Canada after he fled the U.S.

with police in pursuit.

"This is not someone that we feel is a risk to the public," Sgt. Duncan Pound, a spokesman for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, told reporters in Hope, B.C., where Jenkins' body was discovered Sunday.

Jenkins was accused by U.S. authorities with killing his former wife, Jasmine Fiore, a bikini model whose mutilated body was found

Lawyers boycott legal aid

tim.wieclawski@metronews.ca

In a bid to correct what they call years of chronic underfunding from the government, criminal defence lawyers in Ottawa have joined a growing provincial movement to boycott legal aid for murders, guns and gangs cases.

Ottawa's lawyers join about 1,000 others in the boycott movement, but Mark Ertel, president of the Defence Counsel Association of Ottawa said they are waiting for direction from the Criminal Lawyers Association of Ontario before actually declaring they would not be taking any new cases.

While the boycott is mainly over the compensation they receive from legal aid, Ertel says it's not a typical wage dispute.

Since legal aid work is voluntary, it's different than if a union was in a labour dispute with an employer.

"We don't have to do (legal aid) work," he said, "and what we've seen is that people who have a lot of experience are not doing that work."

Ertel said the underfunding has created an imbalance in the legal system that has a lot of legal aid work done by younger, less experienced lawyers.

"If the playing field is not level, and if the Crown attorneys are making twice as much money as the defence lawyers working on the same case, it's only a matter of time before wrongful convictions happen," he said.

According to Valerie Hopper, manager of issues and media relations for the Ministry of the Attorney General, the ministry has been working with Legal Aid Ontario to renew the system and would be working to ensure cases continue to be heard.

hanged himself in his motel room in Hope. His body was discovered Sunday by the motel manager.

Staff and guests at the Thunderbird motel said a woman, described as a young blond, drove Jenkins to the motel Thursday and paid for the room. She left shortly after the two checked in and was not seen again.

Jenkins father told the Calgary Sun his son died frightened and alone, unable to contact his family because the phones lines were tapped.

"He didn't get to talk to anybody," Dan Jenkins said in a story posted on the newspaper's website.

Fiore's mother, Lisa Lepore, told ABC television that Jenkins "took the easy way out" by killing himself.

Hunger striker taken to hospital

Iranian-Canadian went 27 days without food as part of Camp Ashraf protest

tim.wieclawski@metronews.ca

A group of nine Iranian Canadians from Ottawa and Toronto are going into the fourth week of a hunger strike along MacKenzie Avenue, across from the U.S. Embassy, outside Major's Hill Park.

Yesterday, a 45-year-old woman named Akram Ataie was taken away in an ambulance with health issues arising from 27 days without food.

The nine are part of a worldwide protest by Iranians in response to a July 28 raid by Iraqi troops on Camp Ashraf — a refugee camp near Baghdad that has been home to 3,500 Iranian dissidents since 1986.

Until last January, the camp had been under the protection of American troops in Iraq, but that area of the country was handed over to Iraqi forces earlier this year.

According to the Iran Democratic Association of Canada the raid resulted in 11 dead residents, over 450 wounded and 36 residents removed from the camp and handed over to the Iranian government.

The raid sparked massive hunger strikes inside the camp and in eight cities around the world including: London, England; Washington, D.C.; and here in Ottawa.

Reza Beyzaei, a teacher in Toronto, said their demonstration is targeted at getting the American government to fulfil an obligation to protect the people in the camp.

"We are determined to continue this sit-in until the Iraqi troops are out of Camp Ashraf and the U.S. takes over the protection of the camp until another international peace keeping group can monitor the safety of those people," said Beyzaei.

'Baseball plus' seeks multi-purpose venue

Professional baseball can work in Ottawa, but it cannot happen in a vacuum, according to the man hoping to revitalize the city's baseball stadium.

David Butler, chief executive officer of Bytown Trolley Company, delivered his "Baseball plus" business proposal to the city yesterday.

"We envision having some events such as concerts, some theatre, some space dedicated to retail for companies related to baseball," he said.

Butler said he was hoping to work out a lease with the vacant baseball stadium for at least 10 years with an option for another 10 years after, in order to bring a Can-Am league baseball team back to Ottawa.

Butler's partner in the Ottawa Stadium Group, Duncan MacDonald, said it was a shame that a city that produces national champion players cannot watch them perform. To make it work, MacDonald said city council has to recognize that the stadium is part of the community fabric that can bring entertainment, festivals, amateur sport and even Winterlude activities.

"It's a two pronged approach," he said. "Baseball, with the right facilities and other things will make sense."

The OSG proposal is being championed at city hall by Orleans ward Coun. Bob Monette, who said it should not be difficult to attract the 2,500 to 3,000 necessary to make a Can-Am league franchise viable.

"Every time you have a professional team it creates energy. It creates excitement and it creates a sense of pride in your city," he said. "There is a lot of potential for this stadium."

TIM WIECLAWSKI/METRO OTTAWA

Capital Pride officially begins as flags raised

CEREMONY The rainbow flag was hoisted high over city hall yesterday as Mayor Larry O'Brien proclaimed Capital Pride 2009.

O'Brien, joined by councillors Alex Cullen and Diane Holmes, told the crowd, "We are proud to be part of this event."

Capital Pride chair Alan Chaffe said, "To have the rainbow flag fly at city hall is truly important as a symbol that this city will not look backwards in the ongoing struggle for equality."

Earlier in the day flags were also raised at the Ottawa Central Police Station and Ottawa Paramedic Service Headquarters.

close quarters, but the city is not rolling out counter-measures just yet.

Transit Committee chair

Alex Cullen said he has not heard any specific safety concerns from drivers, but noted that Ottawa's medical officer of health, Dr. Isra Levy, has been consulting with OC Transpo.

"Our quarterback on the H1N1 issue is the medical officer of health," Cullen said, noting that earlier this summer, he referred a proposal to install hand sanitizers on buses to Levy.

"At this point, there are no specific measures being suggested," Cullen said. "Obviously if we run into a serious outbreak then we will be looking at other measures to help reduce the exposure of people to H1N1."

Soldiers could be recalled to guard 2010, memo says

Canada could outsource military work in Afghanistan and pull its soldiers from low-profile foreign missions to relieve the pressure of fighting in Kandahar, guarding the 2010 Olympics and securing a meeting of world leaders next summer in Muskoka, Ont.

According to documents, more than 32,000 military personnel — about half the entire Canadian Forces — will be in training or set to deploy on missions to

That staffing burden makes it impossible to carry on current operations and still respond to the weekly requests for Canadian soldiers from the Americans, NATO and the United Nations, the military says.

Canadian participation in smaller peacekeeping missions could end or be drastically cut, the memo also reveals.

'Buy American' waiver only a step: Experts

Asking that Canada be exempt from the "Buy American" provision in the U.S. federal stimulus bill is just the first step to more cross-border business, says International Trade Minister Stockwell Day.

But while observers say a waiver would be a step in the right direction, they question whether it will be enough to stem the tide of protectionism at the state and local levels.

Day sent a letter last Thursday to U.S. Trade Representative Ron Kirk offering "time-limited" guaranteed access to purchases by provincial and territorial governments and major municipalities in exchange for a speedy waiver of "Buy American" provisions.

Day said he and Kirk have agreed to meet soon.

"I'm not sure the extent to which a waiver at the federal level is going to go down, especially when the people at the state and local levels are much closer to the electorate," said Walid Hejazi, an associate professor of international business at the Rotman School of Management in Toronto. "It's not going to hurt, but it's not the silver bullet that is going to make this go away."

Maryscott Greenwood, executive director of the Canadian American Business Council, said any action by Kirk could only go so far.

"It is a step in the right direction but the thing is the United States Trade Representative doesn't really wave a magic wand and say to every state and local government in the United States, 'Okay, you will therefore act accordingly,'" Greenwood said. "I actually think there is a much broader challenge, which is to have a dialogue about how integrated the North American economy is and how it is actually in the U.S. business interest to be able to source in Canada if they want."

Minister claims victory for Karzai

ELECTION Afghanistan's finance minister claimed victory yesterday for President Hamid Karzai in last week's presidential election but, with no official figures released, the claim was rejected by his main rival's camp.

The first, partial figures are due to be released today, five days after the election. Taliban attacks failed to stop the election, although violence did suppress turnout, especially in the south.

Speaking to reporters, Finance Minister Hazrat Omar Zakhilwal said figures supplied to him as a member of the cabinet showed the president has secured support across the country, including in the north.

Zakhilwal said this would make the result impervious to a challenge of fraud. REUTERS

Pop icon's final moments?

• According to the document released by a Houston court, in the early hours of June 25, Dr. Conrad Murray also gave Michael Jackson doses of Valium, ativan, and versed, the filing said. Jackson went to sleep after Murray administered the propofol, and Murray stayed by his side for about 10 minutes and then left "to go to the restroom and relieve himself," the search warrant said. Murray was out of Jackson's room for about two minutes and when he returned, Jackson was no longer breathing, the warrant said.

was due to lethal levels of propofol (diprivan)," according to a warrant to search Murray's offices in Houston.

In an affidavit seeking the warrant, Houston police officer E.G. Chance said U.S. agents had gathered "items constituting evidence of the offence of manslaughter that tend to show that Dr.

Conrad Murray committed the said criminal offence."

Murray, who was in Jackson's bedroom on June 25 administering drugs to ease the pop star to sleep, administered a wide range of drugs before he died, including a 25-milligram dose of propofol via an intravenous drip, the state search warrant said. REUTERS

Lockerbie bomber's welcome fans backlash

Scotland's justice secretary yesterday defended his decision to free the Lockerbie bomber on humanitarian grounds in the face of severe criticism from the United States government and relatives of U.S. victims.

Addressing an emergency meeting of the Scottish parliament, Kenny MacAskill rejected suggestions from opponents that he had bowed to political or economic pressure.

"A decision had to be made," MacAskill told the packed chamber in the Scottish capital. "It was based on the law of Scotland, and the values I believe we seek to uphold. It was not based on political,

Afghan journalist shot dead in Pakistan

MURDER Gunmen shot dead an Afghan journalist known as an outspoken critic of the Taliban as he travelled by bus through Pakistan's Khyber Pass yesterday, a Pakistani government official said.

Janullah Hashimzada was bureau chief in Pakistan for Afghanistan's Shamshad television channel and was travelling from Afghanistan when he was attacked.

"The attackers in a Toyota Corolla car intercepted the bus and made it stop and then they went inside and shot him dead," said Rehan Khattak, a government official in Jamrud, the main town in the Khyber region.

Khattak declined to say who might have been behind the attack.

Journalists in Peshawar, the capital of Pakistan's North West Frontier Province where Hashimzada was based, said he had been a vocal critic of the Taliban insurgency in Afghanistan.

Limit sugar intake, says U.S. group

HEALTH Americans need to cut back dramatically on sugar consumption, the American Heart Association said yesterday in a recommendation that is likely to rile food and beverage companies.

The group said women should eat no more than 100 calories of added processed sugar per day, or six teaspoons (25 grams), while most men should keep it to just 150 calories or nine teaspoons (37.5 grams).

That's far below the 22 teaspoons (90 grams) or 355 calories of added sugar consumed by the average American each day, according to a 2004 government survey.

The researchers took particular aim at the estimated $115-billion US market for soft drinks, which represents the No. 1 source of added sugars in the American diet.

"For the first time we've created specific recommendations about the amount of sugars that can be consumed in a heart-healthy diet," said Rachel Johnson of the University of Vermont, lead author of the policy statement published in the journal Circulation.

SO YOU THINK YOU CAN

DANCE

the road to the top 20

Get ready to 'flip' out Canada. SO YOU THINK YOU CAN DANCE CANADA, the No. 1 new show of 2008* is back, and you won't believe what's about to hit the stage. Season 2 is jam-packed with talent from across Canada looking to follow in the footsteps of Canada's Favourite Dancer, Nico Archambault.

Since winning the title, Archambault was cast as ballet great Rudolph Nureyev, performed in the nation's capital for Canada Day and is currently on a cross-Canada tour, performing the raw, emotional choreography Canadians fell in love with.

Archambault's fellow Top 20 dancers are also making their mark on the international dance stage. From touring Europe and auditioning for the late Michael Jackson, to performing at the Calgary Stampede and starring in multiple feature films.

Not to be outdone, this year's audition tour kicked off in Toronto then criss-crossed the nation, wowing the judges from Vancouver, to Saint John, N.B., and ending off in Montreal and Edmonton.

From 26 consecutive pirouettes and 'bucc' krumping to countless flips across the stage, Season 2's dancers are as powerful and passionate as ever.

The top dancers from each of the five cities traded in their Boarding Passes for flights to Toronto where the best of the best faced off at Finals Week.

After an incredible journey thus far, the judges have finally chosen their Top 20 for SO YOU THINK YOU CAN DANCE CANADA season 2! Over the next few weeks, the Top 20 Dancers will compete for your votes.

Only you can decide who will become Canada's Favourite Dancer.

Get ready to vote, Canada!

Iggy needs a makeover

NationalReport

Lawrence

metronews.ca/nationalreport

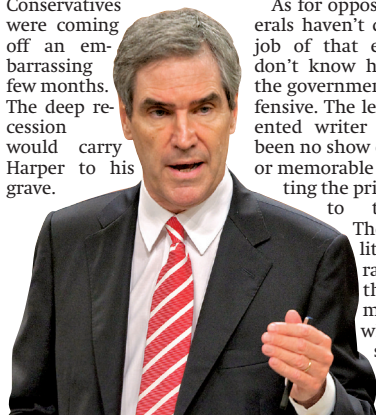

t's official. The Liberal party strategy is a dud. A new Ipsos Reid poll — Conservatives 39, Liberals 28 — is the latest signal. While no one should read too much into one opinion sampling, the downward trend has been apparent for months. Michael Ignatieff's Liberals are backpedalling toward the lows of Stéphane Dion — and they shouldn't be surprised.

What else can be expected when you put out no new policies, no new vision, a leader who appears indecisive, and no sustained attack strategy on Stephen Harper?

The operation needs an overhaul and it needs it now. Iggy has been too beholden to a handful of advisers who brought him into politics. That's what happened to Paul Martin. The former prime minister placed too much power in the hands of a few close political friends.

The plan after Ignatieff took over the leadership last December was to play it safe. Canadians would be happy to see Dion gone. They would be excited by Iggy's fresh intellect. The Conservatives were coming off an embarrassing few months. The deep recession would carry Harper to his grave.

But the recession was short-lived and Iggy showed up with an empty bucket. His advisers kept him in low gear. Opposition leaders should only oppose, they told him. That might work for some, but not in Ignatieff's case. He was a world-renowned intellectual. He was expected to have new and captivating ideas for a public that was fed up with old-style politics.

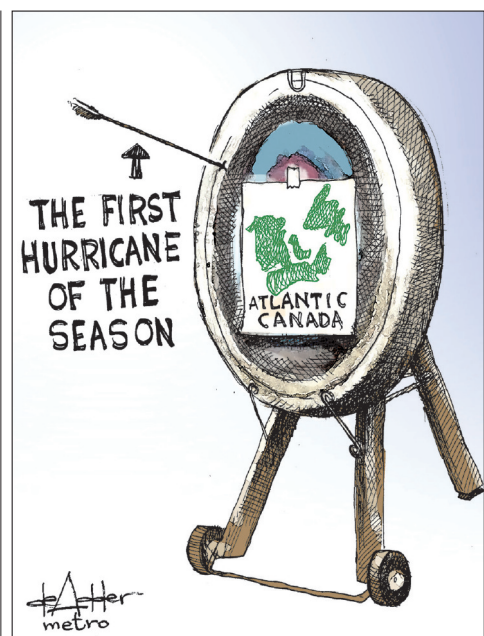

As for opposing, the Liberals haven't done a good job of that either. They don't know how to keep the government on the defensive. The leader is a talented writer but there's been no show of rapier wit or memorable phrases cutting the prime minister to the quick. There's been little to separate him in the public mind from what Harper stands for. The notion that the Liberals could somehow capture the public imagination with an issue like employment insurance reform was cockeyed.

Iggy's office, which has done a good job on party financing and organization, says the national media hasn't been covering him this summer. The reason he hasn't been covered is he has had nothing really striking to say. Had he gone to Washington to see his Liberal soulmate, Barack Obama, that would have made for big headlines. He hasn't done it.

The latest brutal poll might actually do the Liberals some good. It might be the one that convinces them to change course. Dissenters close to the leader's shop will now have the ammunition to demand a change of strategy. They must do so. Otherwise Iggy risks becoming Icarus.

Lawrence Martin is a journalist and author of 10 books who writes about national affairs from Ottawa.

Worth mentioning

Can you juggle, run and chew gum at same time?

The long-distance juggler understands better than most that the race is not always to the swiftest.

Juggling, juggling while jogging, requires a hand as sure as a foot is fleet. But for some well-coordinated multi-taskers, there's nothing quite like it.

"Once I get in a good juggling groove with a nice, relaxed stride and a perfectly timed cascade juggling pattern, it's pure poetry in motion," competitive juggler Michal Kapral said.

"I was amazed how the two things fit together in such a fluid motion — one ball toss for every step," said

Kapral, who started juggling after reading about it in the Guinness World Records when he was 12.

"Studies have shown that juggling boosts brain power, as does running, so the combination feels amazing," Kapral said.

The Torontonian holds the world record for the juggling marathon, which he set in 2007.

And true to his ambidextrous nature, he ran the entire race while chewing gum.

"I chewed the gum as a joke because so many people asked me if I could. I actually found that it helped me stay relaxed."

Time to find homes for Canada's waiting kids

Laura Eggertson

At 17-and-a-half, "Adam" was about to age out of the foster-care system in Ohio, with nowhere to go when he turned 18. That's when a dedicated group of social workers at Northeast Ohio Adoption Services decided it was long past time the teenager found a permanent home.

Adam — a "quirky" kid — had never quite fit into any of his foster homes. He'd spent 14 years in care. Like many of the 500,000 kids in the U.S. child-welfare system, and the 100,000 or so children in care of our provinces, he faced a life without family or financial supports once the system deemed him an adult.

Unless someone stepped up to adopt Adam or become his legal guardian, he would be on his own the minute his 18th birthday rolled around.

"They were really truly going to have to drive him to the homeless shelter," says Cheryl Tarantino, a worker at the Ohio agency.

Fortunately for Adam, Ohio, like a growing number of U.S. states, is taking an aggressive approach to finding permanent homes for older children and teens in its care.

Labelled "extreme recruitment," these innovative approaches pay off. They are finding homes for the children and young people many states, provinces, and child-welfare workers previously considered "unadoptable."

In Adam's case, the Ohio county caring for him entered into a public/private partnership with the organization where Tarantino works to do what it couldn't: Find Adam a family.

Using Facebook and a model called "family finding," pioneered by youth permanency expert Kevin Campbell, the Northeast Ohio Adoption Services agency tracked down Adam's birth mother. Then they convened 44 biological family members.

On his 18th birthday, instead of a homeless shelter, Adam moved in with an aunt who became his legal guardian.

It's a process more Canadian provinces and children's aid societies need to explore. We need adoptive and other permanent homes for all of our kids in care — and we need to do whatever it takes to find those homes.

New Brunswick, Alberta and British Columbia are getting serious about finding homes for the older children and teenagers in their care. It's time the rest of the provinces and territories make this a priority, too, and learn from our neighbours to the south.

The teenagers in our child-welfare system shouldn't have to leave it without a home to visit on the holidays, and the love, support and helping hands of a family of their own.

Chilly fall for retail?

The recession may be over, but the weather remains unpredictable.

For some Canadian retailers, that's wreaking havoc with back to school sales. Despite stronger than expected retail sales in June, according to data released yesterday, Canadian retailers remain worried about the back to school season, the Retail Council of Canada said.

Economists said the better-than-expected one per cent monthly increase in

Back to school

• Sales of basic school supplies should remain strong, experts predict, but profits may be slim as so many retailers slash the prices on them to attract customers.

June to $34.4 billion in retail sales proves the recession is over.

But Canadian retailers say they still can't predict the weather. For clothing retailers, in particular, it could be another tough season as summer finally arrives — two months late.

"More than half of sales during back to school are apparel," noted Diane Brisebois, president of the Retail Council of Canada. And while some purchases are necessary, like new shoes and pants, in milder weather parents and students can put off buying things like overcoats until later when they're on special, Brisebois explained.

Small businesses unprepared for H1N1 outbreak: Study

ILLNESS Only one in 10 small-business owners in Canada have prepared for an outbreak of influenza A (H1N1), also known as swine flu, a survey by Bank of Montreal showed, even though the virus may have a huge impact on workplaces with only a few staff.

While governments order vaccines and schools draw up outbreak plans, a Harris/Decima poll found few small businesses had prepared. The most obvious risk to small businesses from a health-related incident is staffing, but other risks include disruption among suppliers and a sudden drop in demand if fearful customers stop shopping. REUTERS

Stress-free back-to-school

Hand supply shopping over to the kids — with a few key guidelines

Alison On Money

Alison Griffiths

metronews.ca/alisononmoney

Most of us parents would be lying if we didn't admit to a tiny thrill of delight when the ringing of the autumn school bell draws near. But getting Jenn and Josh toggled up and laden with all the gear can turn the dog days of August into something akin to holiday shopping on Dec. 24.

If you'd rather have a root canal than hit the mall with the hordes, turn the job over to the kids. It starts with a list of needs and wants, proceeds to a spending limit and ends, eventually, with "shoo, shoo" at the entrance to the mall.

Youngsters, obviously, will need supervision at all stages. But by working with a five-year-old now you are setting the stage for stress free back to schooling as they approach the pre-teen years.

My husband used to take our daughter clothes shopping by grabbing a coffee and a seat outside a mall store after turning her, list in hand, to a salesperson.

Happiness all round.

Taking a page out of his parental survival playbook, divide the list into clothes, school supplies and 'Please, Mom/Dad!'

The younger ones usually love this process, especially if you send them on a treasure hunt through the house to uncover what items from last season can be re-used, from protractor sets to shoes. If your kids really get into it they can trade supplies among their friends.

The bribe here is this; the more you recycle, re-use and make-do the more you will have to spend on that awesome (fill in the blank).

Next, set a spending limit and dole out the cash. Try not to make decisions for them. As years go by you

Alison's Money Rule:

- Three steps to eliminating back to school shopping stress — make a list, set a limit and let'em at it.

will shift from in-store accompaniment, to lounging by the door, to dropping them off, to letting them drive, cycle or take the bus to the mall themselves.

Mistakes will be made but you will be doing your kids and yourself a big favour by handing over the back-to-school shopping chores.

Costs of school go beyond tuition

RICHARD WOODBURY
for Metro Canada

Having a budget and sticking to it is crucial for not running into financial trouble at university.

"If the kids want to make it through their year and through their program, I would say that's Number 1," says Frances Cody, the housing and financial aid manager at Mount Saint Vincent University.

Students must also distinguish between needs and wants when putting together a budget, says Dr. Laura Stanbra, the director of financial aid and awards at Concordia University in Montreal.

It's important to think about more than tuition and books, and think about other costs such as transportation, rent, food and clothing.

"They can add up pretty quickly," says Stanbra.

Part of the challenge of managing one's finances in university is it's often the first time they've had to do it. The good news is if students need some guidance, most universities offer free counselling to help students straighten out their finances and perhaps provide some financial aid.

"We're here to help them figure out how to save money and how to access other sources of funding," says Claudia Barrett, the associate director of student awards and financial aid at the University of Calgary.

When students do encounter financial difficulties, the key is to be open about it, says Dr. Eric Kirzner, a professor in the Rotman School of Management at the University of Toronto. He says all kinds of people face financial struggles, so there isn't any reason to feel ashamed about facing financial difficulties.

"This is not the time to be shy," he says. "This is not the time to let a small problem escalate into a big problem."

"This is not the time to be shy. This is not the time to let a small problem escalate into a big problem."

Kirzner recommends budgeting on a monthly basis. A weekly budget is too tight and two months is too long. He recommends stretching being frugal early on, so it leaves a little cushion to splurge a little later on. This breathing room can be crucial if unexpected expenses pop up down the road.

"Most students live rather modestly," says Stanbra. "When you have a budget and there's very little wiggle room, one unexpected expense can really mean the difference between making and breaking that monthly budget."

Barrett says some other tips for saving money are to take a close look at banking expenses and know what your plan includes and excludes.

When making purchases, pay by cash whenever possible.

If you have to use a credit card, be sure to pay the monthly balance off in full and on time. This way, you won't have to pay any interest charges and you'll help generate a positive credit rating. Pay attention to the interest rate as well.

Cody advises students who are staying off-campus to look for eight-month leases, rather than one-year ones.

"A lot of students get stuck trying to find subletters for the summer months," she cautions.

Cody also recommends using the web to find scholarships on sites such as studentawards.com.

She also recommends checking with local community and civic groups about potential scholarships.

Big O a no go for Habs

The Montreal Canadiens won't be hitting the ice at Olympic Stadium this year. The team yesterday quashed rumours that it was planning a regular-season match at the stadium. The team looked at hosting the Washington Capitals on Nov. 28, but the CFL's Montreal Alouettes hold an option to use the Big O on Nov. 22 and the NHL requires at least seven days to construct a rink and build up the ice surface.

Liverpool suffers second loss in three games

SOCCER Liverpool lost for the second time in three Premier League matches yesterday, slumping to a 3-1 home defeat by Aston Villa.

An own goal by Lucas Leiva and a glancing header from Curtis Davies gave Villa a 2-0 interval lead before Fernando Torres pulled one back for Liverpool in the 72nd minute.

Any hopes of a storming comeback were shortlived as Steven Gerrard rashly brought down midfielder Nigel Reo-Coker and Ashley Young beat keeper Pepe Reina from the penalty spot with 15 minutes remaining.

With the season a week old Liverpool, runners-up to Manchester United last season, have already lost as many matches as they did in the whole of the previous campaign. It was also their first league defeat at Anfield since December 2007.

Wanted: 200-foot players

Playing both ends of the ice important at Olympic orientation camp

LAURENCE HEINEN
for Metro Canada

On the first day of Canada's National Men's Team orientation camp in Calgary, coach Mike Babcock laid down a challenge for his group of forwards.

Babcock, who will coach Canada's entry into the 2010 Winter Olympic Games in Vancouver, told his players that they will have to be "200-foot players" by being responsible at both ends of the ice.

"You have to play a 200-foot game," Babcock said during a pre-camp press conference yesterday afternoon.

"You have to be good without the puck. The better we are without it, the more time we'll have it."

Team Canada executive director Steve Yzerman agreed with Babcock's assessment and noted that the management team will be watching for the best two-way forwards at the camp and during the first three months of the NHL regular season.

"Specifically our forwards, we're looking for guys that are good in both ends of the rink," Yzerman said. "If you're going to make this team, we want you to be good in both ends of the rink. We can't be hesitant to put a player on the ice."

Forward Jarome Iginla, who's right at home in the Saddledome as captain of the Calgary Flames, said it "totally makes sense" that the coaching staff and executive will be on the lookout for players who can get it done both offensively and defensively.

"Their evaluation isn't really just based on this," Iginla said of the four-day evaluation camp that finishes up with a Red-White scrimmage on Thursday night at the 'Dome.

"You're not going to make it or not make it in the three or four days, but they're going to watch during the year. What's very important to them when it does come time is being responsible and being able to be good positionally and be part of the structure."

Canadian men's eight confident

ROWING No one's going to question Canadian rower Malcolm Howard's credentials to rate a fast men's eight.

After all, Howard was a key part of the engine that pushed a powerhouse crew to victory last year at the Beijing Olympics to highlight a four-medal haul for Canada's rowers.

So one can't help but take notice when he says the men's eight competing at the world championships this week in Poznan, Poland, does some things better than the Olympic champions did. Howard and Andrew Byrnes are the only returning members.

"I mean we're not as big as we were last year," Howard said in a telephone interview. "That was a big eight. But in many ways, we're actually rowing better this year than we were last year."

The Canadian men's eight won their opening heat yesterday in Poland, just ahead of the Dutch, to move into this weekend's final, where the favourite appears to be Germany.

Rounding out the men's eight are Mark Laidlaw, Derek O'Farrell, James Dunaway, Doug Csimas, Gabe Bergen, Rob Gibson and Steve Van Knotsenburg.

Canada finished second to the Germans at the most important pre-worlds competition in Switzerland, with less than a second separating the two boats with 500 metres left before the Germans turned it on for a clear victory.

Bright stuff

Five steps to a younger-looking smile

MICHELLE VILLET
For Metro Canada

From peptide-laced night creams to grey-masking hair dyes, there are countless ways to fight the first signs of aging.

But one area of the body usually gets overlooked: your smile. It's no surprise that a fondness for red wine, coffee and cigarettes can discolour your teeth, making them look older, says Dr. Charles Botbol, a Toronto-based dentist. But that's not the only factor: bad breath, worn-down teeth and lines around the mouth can also add years.

We asked Botbol, Dr.

"Chronic bad breath, which is caused by poor oral hygiene, can make you seem older"

Dr. Charles Botbol, a Toronto-based dentist

Maryam Adibfar, a Toronto-based dentist and Dr. Stephen Mulholland, a Toronto-based cosmetic surgeon, for their best advice on achieving a younger-looking smile.

Follow a good home care routine: "At least twice a day, brush your teeth and gums for two to two and half minutes," says Adibfar. An electric toothbrush with a built-in timer (such as Oral-B's Pulsonic Sonic Toothbrush) can help you keep track of how long you're brushing; they're also better than regular toothbrushes at removing plaque and preventing stains from forming. Don't forget to floss at least once a day, too.

Freshen up: "Chronic bad breath, which is caused by poor oral hygiene, can make you seem older," says Botbol. A pre-brushing rinse like Listerine Extreme Whitening not only freshens breath by stopping bacteria in its tracks, it also gently lifts stains.

Whiten and brighten: Cut back on stain-producing foods and beverages and start using at-home or professional whitening treatments. "For most people, whitening strips are affordable and do the job," says Botbol. Professional treatments — including custom-made whitening trays or Zoom whitening (both start at $300 and up) — perform deeper stain removal.

Get regular check-ups: To keep your teeth and gums in tip-top shape, see your dentist at least once every six months for an examination and professional cleaning, says Adibfar.

Consider investing in cosmetic improvements: If your teeth require more serious repair work — they're misshapen, crooked or worn from grinding, for example — a cosmetic dentist may suggest ceramic reconstruction or contouring (reshaping existing teeth), says Botbol. But a younger-looking smile doesn't stop there.

Hyaluronic acid fillers can restore fullness to the lips and fill in the nasolabial folds [laugh lines], says Mulholland. "Botox can also diminish the smaller lines and folds that run down from the corners of the mouth," he says.

GET BACK TO SCHOOL WITH YOUR HEALTHIEST SMILE EVER!

Given the amount of wet weather we have had to endure this year, it is understandable if some of us feel happy saying goodbye to the summer of 2009. Happy to see it go or not, the fact is summer is almost over. And this year's calendar will see kids back to school earlier than normal.

We recommend that you have your child visit the dentist for a complete dental examination, either before school starts or very early in the school year. Removing any tartar or plaque that has built up over the summer is a great way to make sure kids greet their friends with their best smile ever.

Summer is fading quickly and getting that appointment means acting now! Just like new clothes and school supplies, clean, healthy teeth can be a great way to start the year off fresh. It can also help start your kids down the right oral health path for the year by:

1. Encouraging the use of a mouthguard if they play sports. Even if they are already wearing a face shield, a mouthguard provides the teeth with extra protection in the event of a jarring collision. When not in use, the mouthguard should be stored in an anti-bacterial solution and storage system to prevent the build-up of harmful bacteria.

2. Encouraging healthy eating habits. The more we can steer our kids toward healthy foods like apples, milk or even water, the better. That means steering them away from soft drinks, not an easy task with teenagers, but much better for their teeth and their overall health.

3. Getting them to Brush! Brush! Brush! Have your kids bring a toothbrush to school for after lunch. They will need a germ free place to store it and they should bring it home every week so you can run it through the dishwasher. This is one of the most effective ways to reduce the amount of germs that can otherwise build up on a brush.

4. Visiting the dentist! That one visit at the start of the school year is not enough! Depending upon your child's level of oral health, your dentist may recommend s/he return in three, four or six months for another appointment. S/he may not be complaining of any problems now. Our goal is to keep it that way!

Remember... poor dental health can have a negative impact upon academic performance. Tooth decay is a chronic health problem amongst children and is responsible for a large number of missed school days.

You want the best for your children. So contact your dentist today to make sure they start the year in great oral health. Because doing well in school is a healthy habit...and healthy habits lead to healthy lives.

The straight teeth goods

Hardware options to get your smile in line

JANINE FALCON
for Metro Canada

When Tom Cruise made 2002 headlines with braces, few adults had considered them a grown-up straight-teeth solution.

Now their choices range from discreet to updated metal-mouth versions that offer less ouch and shorter treatment times.

Invisalign

Clear, plastic upper- and lower-teeth trays that fit teeth through each straightening stage, about two weeks per set. The number of "aligners" depends on how much straightening you need.

PROS: Almost undetectable on teeth. Removable for easy brushing and flossing.

CONS: Not for major straightening. Custom manufactured, so you'll wait between fittings and delivery. Invisalign is also the most expensive braces choice.

Ceramic Braces

Ceramic braces refer to the brackets affixed to the teeth. Apparently, Tom Cruise wore ceramic.

PROS: Made of translucent material, ceramic brackets are more subtle than glinty metal. Tooth-coloured wire add further camouflage.

CONS: Although the brackets are translucent, the ligatures are usually latex, which can stain. As well, translucent doesn't mean clear; ceramics could make super-white teeth look dingy. The brackets are also larger than metal, and more brittle.

Self-ligating Braces

Similar to standard metal,

the difference in these is the brackets. Regular braces need tiny plastic bands (ligatures) that encircle tiny hooks on the face of the brackets to hold the wire against teeth. Self-ligating brackets instead have built-in clips to grip the wire.

PROS: Fewer adjustments, less wearing time. In regular braces, ligatures restrict the slip of the brackets along the archwire, so teeth shift haltingly into position. As well, orthos have to remove and replace ligatures at each adjustment visit. With self-ligating braces, brackets slide continuously along the wire as teeth move, which reduces the need for adjustments and shortens the process.

Titanium wire can further lessen straightening time and pain. More flexible than stainless steel, titanium has stretch memory, says Dr. Stephen Gurza, orthodontist and founder of The Brace Place, which has offices in Toronto, Thornhill and Scarborough, Ont. "We can tighten titanium wire more without increasing patient discomfort." Plus, the wire's gradual contraction helps shift teeth into place faster.

CONS: Smile and the world sees your braces.

Fear of dentist is genetic: Study

RESEARCH Have you got red hair? Are you afraid of the dentist?

The same gene variation that causes red hair is also associated with fear of dental work, according to new research in the U.S.

There is a growing body of evidence that a mutation on the MC1R gene, found in most redheads, also causes a resistance to anesthesia. Redheads could require as much as 20 per cent more anesthesia to numb their mouths before treatment.

Participants filled out questionnaires on their degree of fear of dental pain, anxiety about the dentist, and previous bad experiences at the dentist. Their blood was checked for presence of the gene variant often associated with red hair.

Almost all of the red-haired people had the gene variation on MC1R (65 out of 67), while just over a quarter of the dark-haired people had it (20 out of 77).

Whether it's the local county fair (which was all about meeting boys as far as I and my 13-year-old girlfriends were concerned) or the larger scale Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto (ah yes, necking on the bus back to our small town with Randy No-Longer-Remember-His-Last-Name after hooking up with him at the CNE), summer fairs are the stuff of romance.

But the fair wasn't always quite so innocent. Today's CNE is a far cry from its raunchier past when girl shows and burlesque were a regular midway feature.

In his book, Girl Show:

It was a fair to remember

Into the Canvas World of Bump and Grind, A. W. Stencell credits the Columbia Exposition in Chicago in 1893 as the place where travelling carnivals and girl shows got their start.

It was the first major fair in North America that set aside a special area for show people, known as the midway.

Looking for entertainment for its midway, the Chicago Fair featured dancers with exotic names like Fatima and Husaria dancing in sideshows with names like Persian Palace and Turkish Village. According to the history books, many of the girls were Ghawazi dancers and Gypsy prostitutes from Egypt.

"At a time when most women wore corsets, here were these dancers who were shaking the heck out of their boobs and hips," says Stencell.

In her book, Burlesque West: Showgirls, Sex and Sin in Postwar Vancouver, author Becki L. Ross documents the popularity and evolution of girl shows at Vancouver's Pacific National Exhibition from 1910 through to the 1970s where white and black dancers did not share the stage until the 1960s.

"White Shows" and "Black Shows" were presented separately, with the latter being marketed as exotic, savage and ethnic novelties, writes Ross, with the carnival barker announcing things like: "The African Queen, DIRECT from the jungles of Africa! We can't bring her out yet, but we'll bring her slave girls out" whereby out came "Nubian slave girls in chains, a-thumping and a-bumping."

Given this history, it probably wasn't such a bad thing that, as Stencell writes, "by the 70s, carnivals became big business, high-tech; expensive rides were all the rage and girl shows got squeezed out."

This history, however, lives on in strip clubs everywhere. Pole dancing is thought to have originated in the old carnival days when tents were so small the stage often butted up against the centre tent pole.

Director: Tony Gilroy

OUT TO CRE- ATE

lighter fare after his Oscar-clauded helming debut Michael Clayton, writer/director Tony Gilroy is determined to put some smarts into the world of double crosses and double martinis. This spy vs. spy romance begins with the 2003 meet-cute and sexy set-up in Dubai of agents Claire (Julia Roberts), formerly of the CIA, and Ray (Clive Owen), formerly of Britain's MI6. Both are now corporate sleuths.

Naturally, Claire and Ray are in opposing boardrooms, while often in the same bedroom.

Duplicity illustrates the proposition that you can love someone despite not fully trusting them. Don't try to predict the ending, or demand a straight path to it.

Adventureland

SET IN A

decipit Pittsburgh amusement park in the summer of 1987, Greg Mottola's uncommonly temperate coming-of-age comedy is based on his own youthful experiences as a minimum-wage slave forced to toil in a pretend paradise. James (Jess Eisenberg) is a virginal college grad whose plans for a trip to Europe have thudded to the ground. Bereft of cash and marketable skills, James gets a job as a ride operator at Adventureland, an erstwhile entertainment facility.

Adventureland is a stealth comedy — the laughs are few but they sneak up on you and really deliver. More than that, it's a wise reflection of the awkward gap between boyhood and manhood.

Father knows best

Robin Williams is the accidental star of a new indie comedy

Yes, you want to have a great screenplay and a talented director, but no project ever gets made until a star's attached.

You simply can't make a movie without somebody to play the lead and having a star is going to help if you're looking for financing or distribution.

Case in point: World's Greatest Dad, which opened Friday in New York to a modest $10,300 and comes to California on Aug. 28. Written and directed by Bobcat Goldthwait, it's a thoughtful but outrageous comedy starring Robin Williams as a troubled high school poetry teacher and single parent.

After the accidental death of his insufferably nasty teenage son (Daryl Sabara from Spy Kids) he suddenly finds himself with the fame and fortune he's always craved. Only question: Can he live with knowing how it came about?

Although the role fits Williams like a glove, it wasn't written with him in mind. In fact, Goldthwait told me, he didn't even plan on asking him to read it.

"Robin and I are old friends and he really liked Sleeping Dogs Lie," he explained, referring to his 2006 drama that also screened at Sundance. "I really wasn't trying to hit him up to be in the movie."

So what happened? "I was at dinner with him and another friend and I was telling him the new story and he was like, 'Well, can I read it?'"

Moreover, Goldthwait added, "I really wouldn't have written the movie for Robin as a poetry teacher if I had him in mind because I think he covered that pretty well already in Dead Poets Society. So I was really shocked when he wanted to be in it."

On the other hand, poetry be damned — this was such a good fit for these two friends. "I think the character is a little bit based on life lessons that Robin and I had to learn as adult men."

Williams (to Goldthwait about a week into production): "Oh, I get it. I'm playing you and me."

The payoff: "He said it's the most comfortable he's ever felt on a set, which I believe is true because he and I are friends. It wasn't like we would do a scene where you would go, 'Okay, we'll do one. And now we'll do one where you ad lib.' We would keep trying different things, but it was very collaborative."

Goldthwait wrote Dad about two years ago. To write he just goes off to a hotel and works around the clock. "I wrote this one in about five days. My detractors would probably say I should spend another day or two on it!"

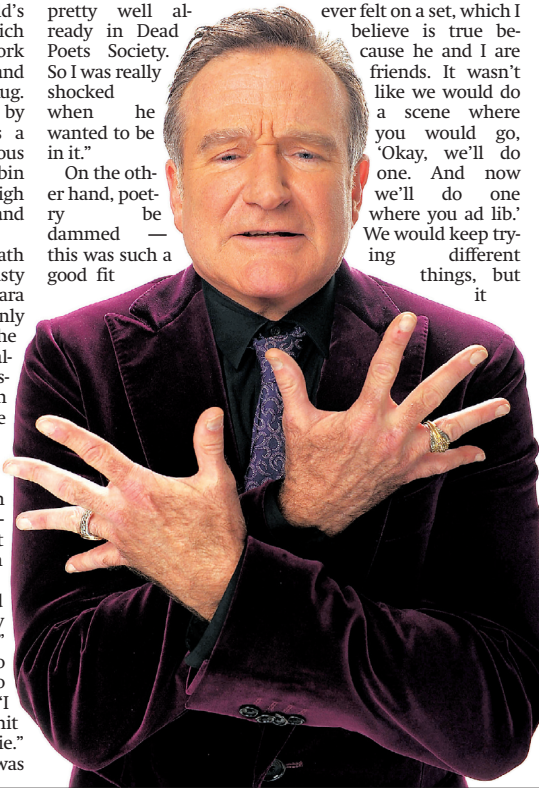

Attaching Williams definitely accelerated getting Dad made. He and Goldthwait wanted to be sure they did the film with "the right people" and avoided the "temptation to make it a zany comedy."

What they had in mind from the start was that the film "wasn't going to try to exploit Robin's name" and wouldn't be marketed as "a comedy with a very silly trailer. We wanted to make sure people kind of got the humour of it."

"It was the folks at Darko (Entertainment) who financed it," he said. A company founder, Richard Kelly, directed Donnie Darko and is a producer of Dad.

Magnolia Pictures got involved after seeing Dad at Sundance and here, too, Goldthwait found himself working with a friend: "Eamonn Bowles, who runs Magnolia, is actually an old friend of mine because he hangs out in a bar that my friend runs in New York. Eamonn's always been very supportive of what we're doing." REUTERS

Alt-rock to all country

Finger 11 axemen go twangy as Blackie Jaccett Jr.

GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM
for Metro Canada

Strange things happen when you sit in a tour bus sharing a bottle of whiskey. Some people even start writing country music. Which is exactly what happened to James Black and Rick Jaccett, the two guitarists of Finger 11.

Strange indeed since Finger 11 is the rock band from Burlington, Ont., with the worldwide hit Paralyzer. It's not what you'd call "twangy." Not in the least.

But this week, under the name Blackie Jaccett Jr., the two are releasing a new country CD called Whiskey And Tears. Replete with jangling banjo and honky tonk grit — it's got a sound that's a lot closer to Johnny Cash than Finger 11.

Blackie Jaccett Jr. happened accidentally, almost as a joke. In between concerts and studio sessions — usually with the help of a shared bottle or two — Black and Jaccett would pass time making up hokey

"We had no intention of releasing (the album), no intention of becoming a band."

country tunes, seeing how many times they could work hurtin' or drinkin' in to a song.

But as they explored the maligned genre more, they began to appreciate the craft of songwriters like Townes Van Zandt, John Prine, the Merles (Travis and Haggard) and the Hanks (Snow and Williams).

Jaccett and Black's songs got more serious, more heartfelt. They recorded as they wrote, letting the tapes roll in hotel rooms, home studios, at friendly get-togethers and, yes, even on the bus.

Jaccett and Black's country routine was limited to band parties and quiet moments with friends. That changed a few months back, when a member of the Finger 11 management quietly passed the Blackie Jaccett Jr. recordings to the band's record company.

Black and Jaccett then got a call saying the label wanted to release it. They were shocked.

"We had no intention of releasing it, no intention of becoming a band," Jaccett says. "For the longest of time, it was just sort of a secret."

To add weight to the music, they picked up a drummer and a bass player. Jaccett even bought a six-string banjo.

They started looking for a female vocalist to counter Black's near baritone. Like everything else in this project, they found their backing vocalist while having a few drinks.

It was karaoke night at Hurricane's Roadhouse on Toronto's Bloor Street. A young woman took the microphone and sang a Dolly Parton tune.

Her name was Sandra D. Jaccett and Black almost spit out their drinks, she was so good. She's been singing with them ever since.

In brief

FILM Gus van Sant, who last directed Sean Penn to an Oscar in Milk, is in negotiations to shoot a project shepherded by new Twilight actress Bryce Howard. The logline for Restless is being kept under wraps, though the Columbia Pictures project described as contemporary and distinctive take on young love.

SHOW The Game is not over yet. Cable channel BET is in talks to order a new season of the comedy, a spinoff from the long-running Girlfriends. The CW cancelled Game in May after three seasons.

PILOT NBC has handed a pilot order to Rex Is Not Your Lawyer, a comedic drama about an attorney who suffers panic attacks and takes up coaching clients to represent themselves in court. The project was written by actor Andrew Leeds and novelist David Lampson.

The Mentalist

All you need is a little mood lighting, soft music and a heap of Courvoisier, right? With Patrick Jane's (Simon Baker) help, Cho (Tim Kang) goes under cover as a sweet-talking ladies man with all the right moves in order to catch a killer who has his own set of pseudomentalist techniques in "Crimson Cananova." Robin Tunney and Owain Yeoman also star. 10 PM on 13 CBS

Being Erica

Trick or treat, indeed. Erica's (Erin Karpluk) lifelong "frenemy," Katie (Sarah Gadon), scores a book deal with River Rock, straining their relationship further. Dr. Tom (Michael Riley) sends Erica back to 1993, when an unsanctioned Halloween party at Erica and Katie's workplace cost Katie her job and ruined their friendship. She's determined to not have the party this time, but you know what they say about messing with the past. 9 PM on 8 CBC

Flashpoint

Hold on tight for this episode, which finds the SRU trying to stop a sniper who's taking people out all over the city. This time it's personal in more ways than one, as Ed (Hugh Dillon) realizes that the sniper is the son of a man he killed. And a member of the team struggles for life after being caught in the gunman's fire. Enrico Colantoni and Amy Jo Johnson also star in "Between Heartbeats." 10 PM on 7 CTV, 104 CTV

Eddie and LeAnn make public debut Heidi shows off her pipes

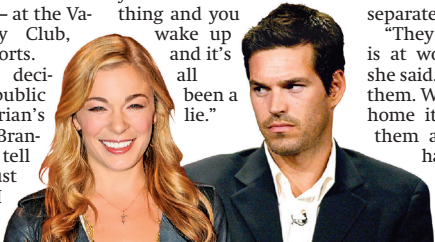

OUT IN THE OPEN It's official: LeAnn Rimes and Eddie Cibrian are no longer hiding their relationship.

On Saturday night, the couple went to the Kings of Leon concert in Los Angeles, just two days after they hit the links — and openly flirted — at the Valencia Country Club, people.com reports.

The couple's decision to go public prompted Cibrian's estranged wife Brandi Glanville to tell People: "He's just somebody I don't know." In March, she had stood by her husband of eight years after allegations surfaced that Cibrian, 36, and Rimes, 26, were having affair.

"I don't understand," she says now. "You think you know one thing and you wake up and it's all been a lie."

Glanville, who is separated from the CSI: Miami star, says she is unable to completely explain to the couple's sons Mason, 6, and Jake, 2, what is going on between mom and dad. (Rimes and her husband, Dean Sheremet, are also separated.)

"They know that daddy is at work all the time," she said. "That's what I tell them. When he does come home it is surprising for them and they are very happy."

Glanville, on the other hand, has a different reaction: "I'm just like, 'You know what? You're not the man I married.'"

She adds that she has spoken with Rimes twice recently, and told her, "He's all yours."

Glanville says she has no plans to reconcile with Cibrian, and hopes to file divorce papers soon. "There is one side of him that I absolutely love and always will," she noted, "but that side of him is not the side I'm divorcing."

Neither Cibrian's nor Rimes' rep was available for comment.

DOUBLE THREAT? Heidi Montag performed for the first time on Sunday's Miss Universe pageant. She sang Body Language while dancing around in a sequin bra and matching pants — but half the song was blocked while NBC introduced the 15 finalists.

"I think people don't know what to expect, and how can they? It's my first performance live and it's in front of a billion eyes. So I'm very excited to show everyone what I'm coming with," Montag said before performing.

TMZ.com reported that Montag would lip-synch because producers were nervous about her performance and feared she couldn't remember her lyrics. Montag, though, said she was unaware of the criticism and eager to perform.

"I'm very excited for everybody to see this," she said. "I think a lot of people are expecting something very different."

Claws come out over sex tape

BLAME GAME Country singer Mindy McCready says she did not release the video of Eric Dane, Rebecca Gayheart and Kari Ann Peniche's nude antics, despite Peniche's assertions otherwise, popeater.com reports.

"I did not want to be dragged into all this. I did not want to be a part of this," McCready told Access Hollywood, WENN reports. Peniche accused her former Celebrity Rehab roommate of stealing the home-made movie while they were on the show together.

But, Mc-

Creedy is hitting back at the former beauty queen's allegations. "She is evil personified, she is evil in human form. She will hurt anyone she can to make money," the singer said. Peniche has also denied releasing the footage. "If I was going to leak it, I would have done that a long time ago," she explained.

Currently, the police are investigating how the tape of the Grey's Anatomy star, his wife and Peniche frolicking naked in a Jacuzzi made its way onto the Internet.

• @RedHourBen Just watched Hannah Montana with my 7 yr. old. We had wildly divergent experiences of the movie.

• @DENISE_RICHARDS OMG my daughters came running in my room covered in what they said was self tanner, thank God it was body make up!!!

• @spencerpratt Everyone who started school again today study hard so you can be like Spencer Pratt when you grow up hahahahaha-hahaha lol

Metro Recipe of the Day

Lemon Turkey with Couscous Stuffing

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 bone-in turkey breast (4 to 4 1/2 lbs/1.8 to 2 kg)
- 2 tsp (10 ml) olive oil
- 1 tsp (5 ml) lemon juice
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1/2 tsp (2 ml) grated lemon peel
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) salt
- 1/8 tsp (0.5 ml) pepper
- 1 1/2 cups (375 ml) boiling water
- 1 cup (250 ml) uncooked couscous
- 1 medium carrot, shredded
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) raisins
- 1/3 cup chicken broth
- 1/4 cup (50 ml) slivered almonds, toasted
- 2 tbsp (25 ml) minced fresh parsley

METHOD:

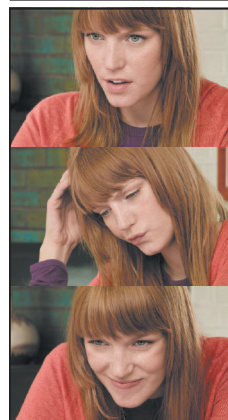

- Carefully loosen turkey skin, leaving attached at back. Combine oil, lemon juice, garlic, lemon peel, salt and pepper; spread under turkey skin. Place

- turkey to one side in shallow roasting pan coated with nonstick cooking spray.
- For stuffing, in bowl, pour boiling water over couscous. Cover and let stand 5 minutes or until water is absorbed. Add remaining ingredients; toss to combine. Spoon stuffing into other side of pan, shaping into 8-in. x 5-in. x 2-in. (20-cm x 13-cm x 5-cm) mound. Cover pan; bake at 325 F (160 C) 45 minutes.
- Uncover turkey; leave stuffing covered. Bake 40-50 minutes longer or until meat thermometer reads 170 F (77 C). Cover turkey with foil and let stand 15 minutes before slicing. Serve with stuffing.

ARIES
MARCH 21-APRIL 20
Not everyone is as robust as you, so don't be surprised if someone reacts harshly to what you tell them.

LIBRA
SEPT 23-OCT 23
Today's cosmic setup means that you know what you want — and one way or another, you will get it.

TAURUS
APRIL 21-MAY 21
You may be tempted to stick with what you know, but an adventurous approach will work wonders.

SCORPIO
OCT 24-NOV 22
The entry of Mars into the most adventurous area of your chart makes a great time of year for getting things done.

GEMINI
MAY 22-JUNE 21
Something is going out of your life and you have regrets. But don't dwell on them. New opportunities are coming to you.

SAGITTARIUS
NOV 23-DEC 21
Cosmic activity in one of the more secretive areas of your chart urges you to be careful about what you reveal.

CANCER
JUNE 22-JULY 22
You'll look back on today as a turning point in your life. You'll have the energy to reach out for those lofty objectives.

CAPRICORN
DEC 22-JAN 20
Get serious about a relationship or end it. The other person wants more than a friendship, but what do you want?

LEO
JULY 23-AUG 23
It doesn't matter how open and straightforward you may be, the information you have is too dangerous to tell others about.

AQUARIUS
JAN 21-FEB 18
Are you using your energy wisely? If certain tasks are tiring you more than you expected you are doing too much.

VIRGO
AUG 24-SEPT 22
It's not like you to be impatient but you've had your fill of playing games just to please others. Friends can be changed.

PISCES
FEB 19-MARCH 20
You may be impatient to get started on all those projects you've got lined up but for best results you must be selective.
